COLONIAL THEATRE. The Bludgeon, 5 Reel Equitable Feature, Photography Par-excellence. It is apparent that the program of all-star feature programs, changed daily, as has been the custom at the Colonial theatre for some time, is gaining in popularity. As usual, it takes some time for the public in general to be acquainted with the fact, and now that they are expressions of and now that they are, expressions of the most flattering nature pour down upon the management, in reference to the quality and class of the pictures. Only in metropolitan theatres has it been possible to see a big five-reel feature, and to enter the same theafeatures, "The Bludgeon, presenting Miss Kathryn Osterman, the peerless leading lady and favorite of Broad-way's biggest theatres in New York. Miss Kathryn Osterman, the peeriess leading lady and favorite of Broadway's biggest theatres in New York. The story is one of great interest and deals with Carl Evendorr, a chemist, who lives happily with his wife Irene and little daughter Rose, until he perfects a formula, which brings him a fortune and he is persuaded by his wife to move into more pretentious quarters, where the wife falls into the hands of Mrs. Wharton, a social leech. At their first entertainment, Irene the wife, persuaded by Mrs. Wharton, appears in a costume of an Odalisque, bringing the men to her feet. Carl remonstrates, but to no avail. Cohen was killed in the basement of a house on West Springfield street, where he had been called to look over some junk. The police obtained an account of the shooting from Morris where he had been called to look over some junk. The police obtained an account of the shooting from Morris Taitel, another junkman, who claimed that Tracey and Rogers induced both him and Cohen to enter the cellar, where they locked him in a closet while Cohen was attacked and robbed. The body of Cohen was found buried in the cellar beneath a pile of ashes.

Simple Harmless Remedy Brings Quick Relief.

Many cases of immediate relief and rapid recovery from bronchial asthma of long standing and other diseases of throat and lungs are being credited to a discovery made by Dr. Eugene Howard of Worcester, Mass. Dr. Howard's prescription, which is totally different from all usual methods of treatment for these afflictions, is called Oxidaze and comes in the form of a tablet which the patient allows to dissolve slowiy in the mouth, its curative, healwhich the patient allows to dissolve slowly in the mouth. Its curative, healing juices thus mingle with the salisting and enter every crevice of the irritated bronchial membranes, release the muscular constriction of the bronchial tubes, open up the air passages and regulate the spasmodic lung action. These tablets, though pleasant to the taste, are so powerful and rapid in their action that many users who for years were obliged to sit up in bed gasping for breath and unable to sleep report that they now put a single Oxidaze tablet in their mouth when going to bed and can then lie down and breathe easily and naturally and get a good night's restful sleep. Lee & Ossessod and many other local druggists who handle Oxidaze teblets sell it on the positive guarantee of money back it does not give immediate relief.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.— With their ports of import closed and their trade with neighboring neutral ports restricted, there must be a certain shortage in the lands of the warbound powers in tea and coffee, the twin harbingers of day throughout the civilized world. With the exception of Russia, all parts of Europe begin the day with coffee just as does this country. The Russian day begins, and steeps, and ends in tea and beer. In Austria, as in France, the day runs from a pot of coffee to a demi-tasse. In Turkey, coffee takes the place of the soda fountain and the saloon, beginning and ending all things. A shortage in these two most pright, fiuffy and easy to manage. hings. A shortage in these two most things. A shortage in these two most widely accepted drinks must work a considerable discount upon comfort." In these words the National Geographic Society begins a pleasing little story of the coffee pot and the teaurn in their relations to the European War and to the comfort of humanity. The story then goes on:

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

Norwich

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two tablespoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

Yes, there is a chance that a Bulletin Lost Ad will not find your lost article, but there is a bigger and a better chance that it will.

There are many subscribers of The Bulletin and it is safe betting that one of them found your article.

The cost of a Bulletin Lost Ad is often over-estimated. A three-line word ad costs 45 cents for three times; 90 cents for a whole week. Compare this cost with the value of the article lost, then you can make a fair decision. We believe that experience will make you decide in favor of the ad. Call 480, The Bulletin Co.

POETRY

THE PLAG OF BETSY ROSS.

Long are the years that it drifts across—
The tale that is dear and dim.
Of Washington's visit to Betsy Ross And the flag that she made for him—The tale of the flag with the radiant folds
And the stars in the field of blue;
And well have we cherished all it holds
That has thrilled us through and through.

And well do we treasure still the scene
In the quaint old Quaker town.
Over the folds with their sliken sheen
The seamstress is bending down:
The roses are blooming beside the door
Where the fragrant breeze comes through The breeze that will welcome forever-The Red and the White and the Blue. And the eyes of the seamstress, what do they see
In the stars she has circled there?
The sign of a Union that shall be Forever free and fair?
So the vision grows as her needle flies
Through the hurrying hours, and then.

When the sun is low in the western skies.

The General comes again. All this we have read; but who can tell of the flag that she made that day? What was its fate, and what befell When the General rode away? Oh, where did it fly, and where did it fade, And where was it last hauled down— The flag that Betsy, the seamstress. made In the quaint old Quaker town?

Did it fly, perchance, in the battle smoke, The target of shot and shell? Did it hear the cheers when the enemy broke.

And the groups of the men who fell?

Did it wave o'er the ranks of buff and And the glory of victory share.

But a captive trophy there?

Did it fly, perchance, in the favoring On a ship that satied afar
Beyond the farthermost sweep of seas,
Where the Islands of Mystery are?
Did it know the lash of the roaring gales,
And the kiss of the salty foam?
Did it flutter aloft when the weathered salts were furled in the harbor of home? Did it fly, perchance, o'er the teeming when the land knew peace again,
When the land knew peace again,
Where ever its gleaming stars looked

That the fabric fell in dust
And went to the Land Where Lost
Things Go,
As every fabric must.

The fabric faded and fell apart;
Yet the beautiful flag we know
Is the flag unfading that thrilled the heart
Of Washington long ago!
And in that flag through the year to be.
Wherever its free folds toss,
Shall the eyes of a loyal people see
The flag of Betsy Ross!
